

'TIS' THE SEASON FOR THE TRAVEL TEAM SALES PITCHES!

Parents and players, be weary of organizations that fall under these traps:

- Keeping and Inflating team/personal stats that mean nothing.
- Promoting rankings that no one cares about except the travel team coach to justify ridiculous fees.
- Recommending recruiting companies whose opinions and ratings are based on number of appearances.
- Equating miles traveled in travel ball as a ticket to a scholarship.
- Playing a ton of games, thinking games played by itself, will improve performance.
- Wandering around the country hoping a school notices your child.
- Posting your exit velo and launch angles on social media as if anyone cares.
- Having coaches with daughters or sons on the team that either get picked on unmercifully or receive preferential treatment.
- Having your high school coach be a part of your travel organization.
- Paying exorbitant fees for the promise of helping you get a scholarship one day.
- Offering team practice to reinforce bad habits and inefficient mechanics that will hurt your long term success.

The recruiting landscape has changed forever in college sports.

Big grades with individual skills is the key.

Identify 5-7 schools to show off your skills and transcripts to with a resource that college programs have been using for 25 years.
